Massive machinery makes grand entrance

Project EnergyConnect has reached a significant milestone as the first of five massive 374-tonne Phase Shifting Transformers finally arrived in Buronga, NSW. The enormous piece of kit started its long journey in Korea and travelled thousands of kilometres by sea to Australia where it was loaded onto a massive 128-wheel trailer to continue its 900km trek through two states and the outback.

Taking upskilling to new heights with Legacy 100

A brand-new training program has been launched to boost skills in the power transmission sector across regional NSW. This initiative will form the backbone of the future workforce in the transmission tower construction industry by producing qualified, skilled workers into the industry. Click the 'learn more' button for more information and to register your expression of interest.

Tuning in to the Arts in Wagga

Transgrid's Community Partnerships Programs continues to support not-for-profit groups within our projects areas across NSW by providing more opportunities to bring locals together through art. It is inspiring to see how our contributions are being used to enrich the lives of people in the communities where we work.

Shining lights on Moama at Moama Lights

The lights will be shining brightly in Moama this weekend, and we are excited to return this year as a Platinum Partner of Moama Lights. It promises to be a fun filled festival, so make sure you check it out if you are in the area.

Taking action for Reconciliation

Transgrid is taking action and working to place reconciliation at the heart of what we do. The launch of our Stretch Reconciliation Action plan demonstrates our commitment to supporting local Indigenous Australians as we build our energy networks.

Coming soon - Wagga Engagement Hub

The public will soon have access to a 'one stop shop' for all things Transgrid in the heart of Wagga Wagga. The new centre, scheduled to open early 2024, will provide a place where locals from Wagga Wagga and the Riverina can access information on major projects and provide valuable feedback to our team.
