Helicopter laydown at Yass Worker Accommodation Facility

Stringing works for HumeLink East

The next phase of construction on HumeLink East is getting underway in the central section of the project between Pejar Dam and the Murrumbidgee River, with helicopters to string conductor cable between transmission towers.

From mid-September through to 2027, a helicopter used for stringing will be landing at the HumeLink East worker accommodation facility in Yass to utilise the laydown yard.

The helicopter will depart Monday to Friday at 8am and return between 5pm to 6pm.

The helicopter will depart from the laydown yard and fly directly to the HumeLink East alignment.
